

The LawTech Delivery Panel

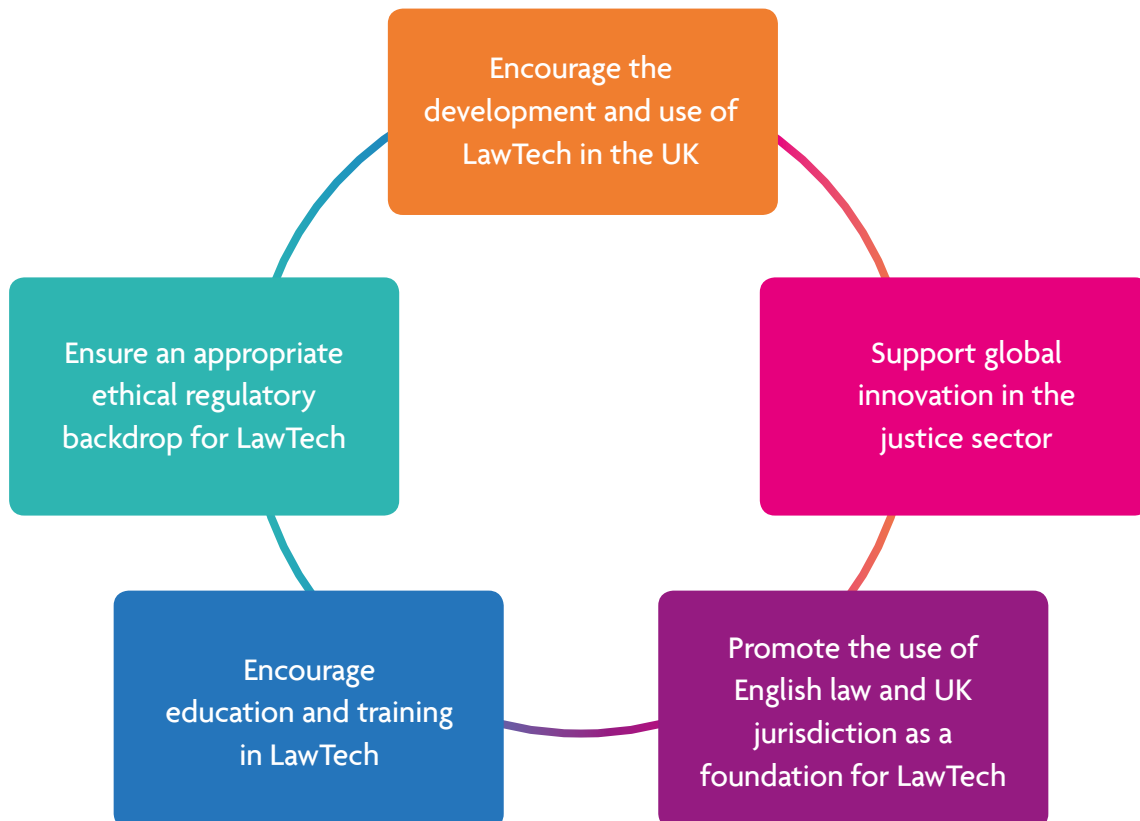

LawTech UK

VISION

LawTech is central to the future growth of the UK's £26bn legal services sector

OBJECTIVES

The LawTech Delivery Panel's overarching objective is to promote the use of technology in the UK's legal sector

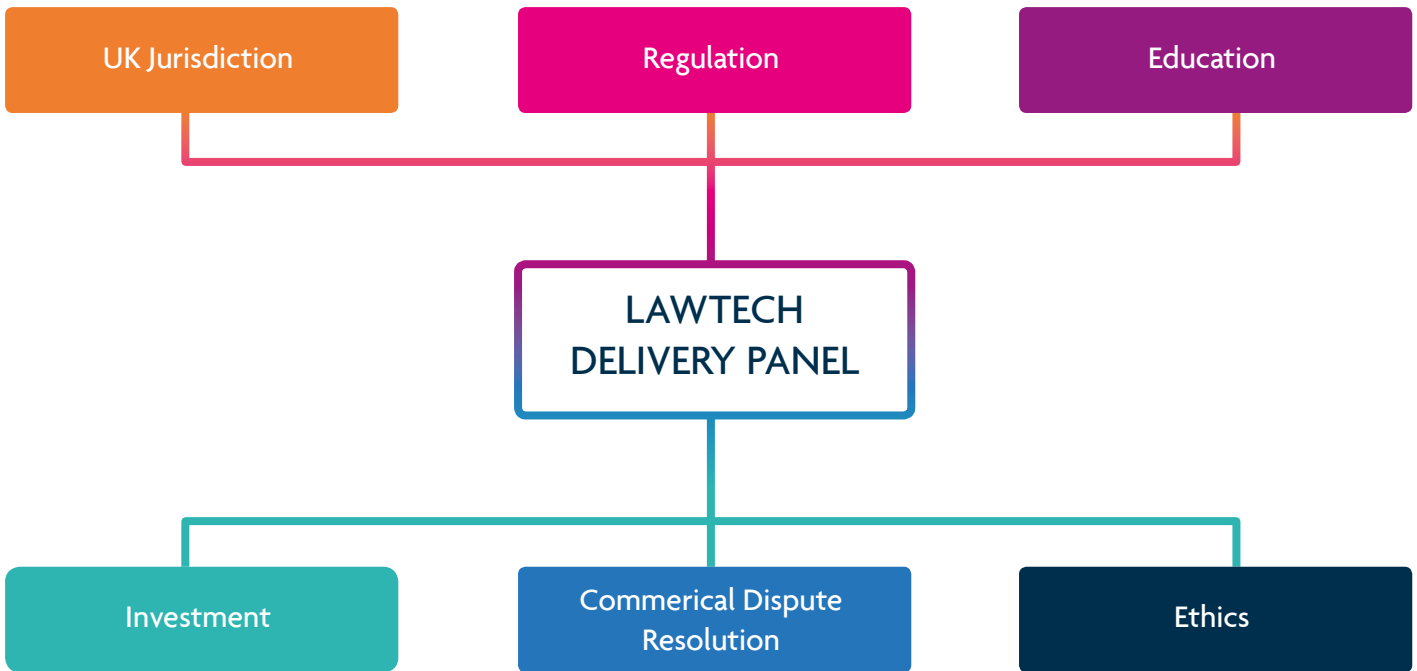

ACTIVITIES

To achieve its objectives, the LawTech Delivery Panel will:

TASKFORCES

The LawTech Delivery Panel will seek to establish taskforces in at least six areas:

MEMBERSHIP

The LawTech Delivery Panel was established by the UK Government, the Judiciary, and the Law Society of England and Wales. The core initial membership will consist of the following:

Ms. Christina Blacklaws, Chair
(President of the Law Society)

Rt. Hon. Lord Keen of Elie QC (Justice Minister)

Rt. Hon. Sir Geoffrey Vos
(Chancellor of the High Court)

Professor Richard Susskind
(Technology Advisor to the Lord Chief Justice)

Dr Anna Donovan (University College London)

Ms Rosemary Martin (General Counsel, Vodafone)

Mr Gary Campkin (TheCityUK)

Ms Sonya Branch
(General Counsel, Bank of England)

The Panel will consider extending invitations to join or participate in its work on a regular basis, given LawTech's fast-paced nature.

NOTES

- The LawTech Delivery Panel will operate collectively and collaboratively. Panel members will excuse themselves from specific decisions and activities that could cause a conflict of interest.
- The Panel will not support specific individual commercial ventures, but will instead take a sector-wide approach.
- The Panel will operate transparently. Formal communications and statements will be agreed between the Ministry of Justice and the Chair of the Panel.
- The administrative support and secretariat function will be provided by the Law Society, working closely with panel members and Ministry of Justice officials.
- The Panel will meet at least every two months and may choose to publish interim reports and an annual report on its activities.
